Motion Picture News

What the Picture Theaters Have to Tell You.

VALUABLE PAINTING IS DESTROYED

E. H. Sothern Buys Canvas Worth Hundreds of Dollars.

One scene alone in "The Chattel," the Vitaphone Blue Ribbon Feature starring the world's most famous actor, E. H. Sothern, cost the Vitaphone company hundreds of dollars.

Mr. Sothern as a wealthy financier, purchased a beautiful painting called "The Chattel." He believes his girl-wife his chattel also as he helped her father out of financial difficulties before their marriage. When she learns of the state of affairs she plays against him in the stock exchange and buys her freedom.

It is then that he slashes the canvas of "The Chattel," with a sword—despondent because, for the first time in his life he has failed in keeping what he coveted.

This painting played a large part in the story and was purchased by the Vitaphone company for a large sum. Nevertheless, nothing was done to prevent the destruction of the valuable canvas for to have eliminated the scene would have meant dramatic suicide on the part of the plot. See this film at the Pastime theater today.

IS A MAN'S WIFE HIS CHATTEL

"THE CHATTEL"

Blake Waring, a financier, whose life code is:

"I must and will have the best;

For it I will pay any price and count the cost fair.

But once the thing is mine it is mine own to do with as I please, and none shall interfere."

Dr. Travelutte Held Over.

In response to the demand of an insistent public, Manager Cooper of the Alta theater was successful in retaining "The King of Hypnotists" for Sunday and Monday's performances and Monday night will absolutely be the last chance to see "The man who set the world 'doffin'" for the company goes to Walla Walla for the remainder of the week. During his stay at the Alta theater, capacity business was the order of the day and last night was no exception and he kept his audience in a constant roar of laughter through the amusing antics of the subjects over whom he exercised his powers. The doctor stated he had arranged an exceptionally fine program for Monday night so the people will be laughing for weeks after when they think back about what they saw. On this night he will have a class of lady subjects upon the stage and present new and novel tests especially arranged.

BUMBY-BUMP FOR THE TRIANGLE KIDNERS

A street of the early California period with saloons, gambling halls and cabarets, numbering more than seventy structures, was built especially for the Triangle-Fine Arts production, "Somewhere in France," directed by C. M. and S. A. Franklin, and starring Bessie Love, Indians, gamblers, Chinese and cow-boys appear in the street scene, which is one of the most elaborate of its kind ever built for a motion picture production. An old western stage coach, which ran from Sacramento to San Francisco in 1869, is used in the play. Ed Burns, a next-cow puncher, drives the coach. The Triangle kid-dies soon wearied of riding in the stage coach, as the vehicle, devoid of springs, bumped them around most cruelly.

The Temple offers for a comedy today "His First False Step," a Keystone in two reels. It's a scream.

AMPHIBIOUS WARSHIPS BUILT HERE FOR RUSSIA

"Landgoing" Armored Motor Boats Disposed by Contract Suit and Counter Claim.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—"Landgoing" motor boats, lashed to pontoon carriages and rumbling over at least thirty-seven miles of rough country, speeding through shallow water by means of propellers placed in tunnels within the hulls, blazing their way with machine guns and thwarting bullets by steel shields around their vitals—these are specifications of little machines made for Russia in New Haven.

Their existence came to light through a suit brought in the supreme court here by the Wells Marine Equipment Company for $55,320, claimed to be due on a $113,270 contract for thirty such boats ordered by the Mitsui Company, brokers, for a "foreign government." It is learned counsel have settled the litigation out of court. The boats will be sold for the benefit of the litigants. A counter claim of more than $150,000 for breach of contract was advanced by the Japanese firm of brokers.

A representative of the brokers said he thought the boats were wanted when Russia had control of much swamp country in Poland.

"I'd better not tell you any more," he said.

Time is short for Christmas shipping, but there is enough time to permit the industrious buyer to spend his money.

Mary Pickford, "Cameraman"

Mary Pickford has her own film producing company now and from the picture it might be inferred that she was tending to familiarize herself with every detail of production. As a matter of fact, she has no such intention. Oil and water won't mix, she says, and even though she is the boss she's going to confine herself strictly to making her Arctcraft pictures the way she believes her admirers want to see her. The mechanical and business ends of the enterprise aren't going to keep her awake nights.

No, in this picture Mary Pickford is just acting out a little bit while the camera man's back is turned and his crank is not. She's a mischievous little person around the studio, is "Our Mary," and likes to relax entirely whenever not engaged in the serious business of rehearsal or actual filming of scenes. Any of the children who have appeared with her in pictures can tell of fruitless attempts to outdo her in pranks. She had a lot of fun while "Less Than the Dust" was being made because there are lots of children in that picture. Here she is shown with her director, John Emerson. The man under the sun shield is a real fortune teller, engaged for a similar part in the new Arctcraft production to give the scenes in which he appears the proper atmosphere.
